

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOLUME XIV.

SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1883.—TWELVE PAGES.

PRICE 5 CENTS

P. H. SNOOK.

My every Sunday morning advertisement in the Constitution has had a tendency to revolutionize the entire Furniture trade throughout Georgia. Dealers generally try to conform to my prices. If this be true I think I can safely rest on my laurels, but the habit of selling Furniture at short margins has become so strong, and my trade has assumed such tremendous proportions that I propose for the ensuing week and for the benefit of "The Delegates to the Democratic Convention" and Visitors.

To still reduce prices on a few leading articles, taken as a drive and for spot cash only:

Embossed Plush Parlor Suites	$6.700
Cottage Chamber Suites	20.00
Silk Plush Lounges	20.00
Marble Tables only	3.50
Raw Silk Suites	45.00
Extension Tables	75
Wardrobes	12.50
Book Cases	17.00
Chiffoniers	$25.00
Sideboards	25.00
Sideboard Safes	10.00
Full Marble Chamber Suites	50.00
Full Marble Chamber Suites (toilet)	75.00
Hat Rack, Library tables, Parlor and Chamber Suites, Desks, Pier and Mantle Glasses, besides

$100,000.00 Worth most elegant Furniture of every description. My sales for the last two weeks has been unparalleled. I have furnished outfits for five large hotels and boarding houses. Notably that Bijou of a Hotel on Whitehall street recently rented by Mrs. Archer, which will be furnished throughout with new and elegant suites; every piece made to order and matched up.

To the People of Atlanta.

I will simply say: My store is always crowded with customers, mostly strangers and both myself and clerks feel that they can at least overlook any delay at or want of prompt attention, and hope they will entertain themselves in looking through the vast array of beautiful goods on my ware room floors. I am safe in saying one hundred good customers left my house without being waited on. If this is not an argument in my favor, then I am at a loss what to attribute it to.

In one of my Advertisements on January 1st, '83, I announced my determination to beat the record of '82, which aggregated nearly one-quarter of a million dollars. As a starter for the first week in April, you will find the full bona fide daily sales which any disinterested person can verify by my books Monday, April 2, Sales $1,045.63 Tuesday, " 3, " 703.10 Wednesday, " 4, " 871.15 Thursday, " 5, " 1,450.65 Friday, " 6, " 920.00 Saturday, " 7, " av'ge 995.10

Grand Total $5,985.63

You will perceive by the above table I have made an average of Saturday. This I was forced to do in order to get this "ad." on the title page of to-day's paper.

JOHN KEELY

Believing that the good sense of "the People" does not impel them to inquire into the details of "why and wherefore," will not begin this notice by stating that HE ALONE of all others, possesses ALL the facilities for doing business. Such a course on his part were folly. "The People" are always right in this country, and having awaited their judgment in the past, he is grateful for the almost unparalleled success which has crowned his efforts.

The following propositions, however, may not be out of place, viz:

1st. John Keely sells more Dry Goods FOR CASH than any of his competitors, perhaps.

2d. John Keely takes a line of discounts in course of his business, which is, perhaps, unexcelled in the South.

3d. John Keely proposes to sell Goods cheaper than anybody.

In support of the above propositions,

JOHN KEELY OFFERS TO DUPLICATE ANYBODY'S SAMPLES OF ANY CLASS OF GOODS, WHETHER THE HOUSE IN QUESTION BE HERE OR IN NEW YORK, AT LESS FIGURES THAN THE SAMPLES CALL FOR.

1883

Finds JOHN KEELY in possession of the largest and best selected stock of goods which it has ever been his privilege to offer to the public. Take for instance

DRY GOODS!

In which he displays:

150 pieces beautiful Wash

Poplins 5c. yard, worth 12½c.

300 pieces better grade goods

10c and 12½c. yard. Proportionately low!

200 pieces All Wool Bunt-

ings! Mark this: "All Wool Buntings" 15c. yard. Never sold before for less than 25c. a yard. A Perfect Wonder!

up to $3.50 a yard, on every piece of which I defy competition.

LADIES

Just let those who claim to compete with my prices give you samples at the very lowest prices they will make, and then see if I don't beat them! That's fair. This stock embraces all

Novelties in Surah Silks, Otto-mans, etc. All colors in solid

Gros Grain Silks, etc.

JOHN KEELY'S

EMBROIDERIES!

EMBROIDERIES!

Everything possible here!

Nothing lacking! $10,000 worth of Embroideries. There never was such a stock in the South. I do not except Baltimore. The largest retail house there never offered such stock o

Embroideries. Now I know that this is a dretty bold statement

but I have too much experience to be mislead as to the fact!

NEW YORK DRUMMERS ALL SAY

THEY NEVER SAW THE

LIKE OF IT!

It embraces Swiss Edgings

and Insertions, Jaconet Edgings

and Insertions, India Mull

Edgings and Insertions, Linen

deInde Edgings and Insertions,

French Cambric Edgings and Insertions. All to be found in perfect sets to match, and from 1 inch to 27 inches wide.

There is nothing like this stock in the South!

JOHN KEELY'S

LINENS, TOWELS, NAPKINS,

WHITE GOODS, ETC.

Just think of it! I found an importer who needed money,

I happened to have some, so I let him have what he needed, and I literally helped myself in return.

I can sell you a good all-linen

Table Cloth at 20c yard; a fine

one for 50c to 75c, and the better grades in proportion. It is impossible to go into detail in regard to this stock, but if I don't sell bargains in it for the next 30 days

my name is not

JOHN KEELY

I will give away Table Linens at prices which you cannot dodge! You are bound to buy them!

I will sell Napkins and Towels for little over half their regular value!

LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS.

I am literally giving Linen Handkerchiefs away. I bought

6,000 dozen of them in one lot.

6,000 dozen of them in one lot.

There must have been some cause for it, as this lot would stock Atlanta. The fact is, they had been slightly damaged by water, but the fibre is not at all injured. Ladies' sizes at 5c,

6¼c, 10c and 15c each, warranted all Linen, and worth double the money. Gents' sizes,

10c, 15c and 20c each, well worth

THESE PRICES ARE

ATROCIOUSLY LOW.

JOHN KEELY'S

MILLINERY!

MILLINERY!

Is the talk of the town. Nothing like it in extent and beauty has ever been offered in Georgia. It takes a corps of four gentlemen and six ladies to sell the goods, besides some fourteen ladies employed as trimmers. Every novelty which is at all desirable will be found here. Not $20 worth of goods was carried over from last year; therefore, all the stock is new and fresh. No pains nor expense has been spared in order to make this department the most popular Millinery Department in the city.

Its large sales demonstrates that the effort has been successful. The ladies crowd it day after day. In it will be found the best line of Children's Street, Yard and Dress Hats

ever shown in Atlanta.

JOHN KEELY

Purchased one lot of 3,000

FANS at less than half price.

He will sell them in the same proportion. Nobody need go without a FAN, now. The variety is immense, their beauty is dazzling, and the price! Well, the price is ridiculously low for such Goods.

SHIRTS

John Keely's shirts have long since won a wide renown. I ship them to Tennessee, Alabama, South

Carolina and Texas.

My 50 cent shirt is Peerless. No body can match it.

THE THREE TESTS

BY WHICH THE CONVENTION OF TUESDAY MAY BE JUDGED.

First the Grand Round of Complimentary Votes, Then the Contest Between the Four Announced Candidates, and the Match Between Boynton and Bacon for Victory.

There are many aspects that the balloting in Tuesday's convention may take, but the three following seem to cover the most important:

1. That every gentleman who has been mentioned, in a complimentary way or in earnest, will be voted for, and will continue in the skirmishing until the leaders are worn down and then take their chances in the final break-up. To meet this contingency we have prepared a table giving the vote as near as can be estimated of every man who has been mentioned for.

2. That the four avowed candidates only—Boynton, Bacon, McDaniel and Cook—will be voted for. A table is submitted giving the probable vote of each in this event.

3. That the race will be narrowed down to Boynton and Bacon, who are so largely the leading candidates. We print a table giving our estimate of the vote in this event.

Of course there may be other and entirely different phases of the contest. The friends of Boynton and Bacon both claim that they will never desert their favorites, and say that while they have each two or three times the vote of any other candidate, they should not be expected to do so. On the other hand, the friends of the other candidates say that the people do not want either of the leading candidates, and that there is a strong undercurrent for some one else. To this it is replied that in the attempt to transfer the large vote of either Boynton or Bacon to a new man enough will drift to the other leading candidate to give him what few votes he needs. And so the gossip goes.

It will be seen that we have eliminated all the doubtful votes. In doing this we have given Major Bacon all, and the best we believe that his friends can claim for him. We put Camden, Coffey and Irwin in his column, although we have no authority for doing so, except the claims of his friends. It will be seen that the vote is close and the result is more or less doubtful where so few counties have definitely instructed their delegates and where so many candidates are either in the field or held in close reserve. We maintain, however, that our tables will be found to be as nearly correct as any ever before presented in advance of a roll-call.

As it May Stand on First Ballot.

The following table shows the vote as it will stand—or approximately—if the complimentary votes ordered by the different counties, and the votes for real and possible candidates are all cast. We have excepted Judge Brown, for whom Cherokee was instructed, and Hon. John C. Nichols, for whom Pierce was instructed, as both these gentlemen declined to be voted for.

THE RAILROADS.

CROSS-TIE GOSSIP IN AND OUT OF ATLANTA RAILROAD CIRCLES.

The Bell Railroad Around the City—Drivings of Fast Mail—New Engines—The Western and Atlantic Road—Jay Gould and the South-East Train from Atlanta.

The morning fast train on the Central has ceased to stop at Griffin and now passes only three times between Atlanta and Macon. It has been made at Forest, Milwaukie, and the rapid run of 101 miles in little over three hours is made with almost unvarying regularity. The five hour train from Atlanta to Augusta stops at all the principal stations.

The Western and Atlantic railroad, in anticipation of the fast summer freight it proposes to run, will have ready for use by the middle of May, two of the largest and best locomotives that can be made. They are to be named the "John Hill" and the "Alice Stephens." Some very heavy switch engines of a late pattern are also being constructed for the same line.

A party of gentlemen, including several of the officers of the Georgia Pacific railroad and of the Richmond and Danville extension company, went on a special car, last Friday, over the new Bell railroad constructed by the extension company.

Leaving the Georgia Pacific just beyond the corporate limits it crossed the city to the right and strikes the Air-Line near the six mile post. The line has been built and balasted in the best style. It was built in transferring the freight of the Georgia Pacific, but it has prospectively a much greater and more general use than the old line.

By the new line the passenger question of Atlanta and its vicinity is solved. The old line, which is a short cut, is now to be used for freight only.

The Georgia Pacific, already in use on the west side of the city, will be used for freight only. The new line will be used for passenger service.

The Bell railroad, which is now in use, is a short cut. It is used for freight only. The new line will be used for passenger service.

A PALACE OF SWEETS.

A Charming Resort on Whitehall Street and Its Neighboring Improvement.

Saturday afternoon is a busy time in Atlanta. The streets afford a moving panorama sufficiently bright to interest the most careless spectator. Yesterday afternoon a CONSTITUTION representative was strolling in the gay throng when his attention was attracted, among all the elegant stores on Whitehall street, by one of especially artistic appearance.

Pausing in front of Saul's elegant establishment he could not resist the temptation to enter. Evidently the spirit of improvement had moved the enterprising proprietor to add several new attractions to what was already one of the most popular resorts in the city. The first object which attracts the attention on entering is the magnificent sofa front on the right. Mr. Saul had made it to order in Boston, and it is said to be not a duplicate of any to be found in the south.

From it the purest soda water is drawn, and made delicious by any one of 23 flavors. Six mineral waters, fresh and sparkling, are also offered to the thirsty from this generous spring. Beer, ginger ale, porter, and other beverages, can also be had there. Just over the fountain is a beautiful panel frieze. As soon as he saw it, the reporter asked whose work it was. Said Mr. Saul: "That is the work of Mr. Frank, formerly of Washington, but now located in Atlanta at 110 Whitehall street. Here is more of it."

Mr. Saul then called attention to the walls and the ceiling of the large store, and they were beautiful indeed. The work proved Mr. Frank's capacity as an interior decorative artist. When the ceiling was complimented Mr. Saul said: "Yes; that is one of Tiffany's latest patterns and it was designed especially for this place."

"Is the design one of your own selection?" "No, I left the matter entirely with Mr. Frank. I did all the handsome work you see around you, and he has actually surprised me in colors and effect. You should see some of the work he has at his place."

Acting on this suggestion the reporter called on Mr. Frank and found a beautiful variety of interior decorations of the latest and tasteful patterns. There were chaises, flocks, stamped leather, and all the novelties modern to be designed to make the interior of houses lovely. Among the designs are some of the noted Morris Company's, Colemans, Tiffany's and Dressers."

"Do you find Atlanta ready for such superior work?" "Yes, sir. I have done some work here that called for the very best material, as well as the most skillful workmanship."

Mr. Frank is sure to be appreciated in Atlanta, where many handsome edifices are already erected and so many more are to be built. He has fitted up Saul's in palatial style. It is bound to be one of the attractions of the season. A stock of confectioneries, pastry, and bonbons unsurpassed is offered there in the most tempting surroundings. Toys of every fashion and device from the simplest to the most complicated make one of the features of the store.

Toy carriages, velocipedes, etc., are also on hand. To please the little ones, Mr. Frank has an ice cream parlor and a candy store, and is fitted up with every convenience and luxury that taste can suggest or money supply. Such a resort is very much desired in Atlanta and the careful management of Mr. Saul will make it a success. With all these points of interest and with such a complete establishment in every particular Saul's cannot fail to increase in popularity until it becomes one of the most popular resorts of the city.

POKER-PLAYING

How the Man for the Game is Spreading—Some Heavy Pockets Have Been Made.

"How did you come out last night?" whispered a well-known merchant to a well-known lawyer in an olive-street car this morning.

"About $10 ahead. Caught it all in the last jack-pot," was the reply, easily whispered, and the astute reporter knew at once that poker was the topic of discussion.

Not far has been suppressed in St. Louis for has been all the rage, and it is now played more extensively than it ever was before. A fair estimate would show that at least 200 games, large or small, are in process every night of the week, the best evening being Saturday. All classes of people play, and it is even hinted that the clergy sometimes seek the enchantment which arises from drawing two pair and filling.

Probably the largest private game in the city is run on Eighth street, near Chestnut, in a gentleman's sleeping apartment on the second floor. The gentleman who runs the "den" is ostensibly connected with the real estate business, and his name comes very near being with an N. This is known as the "legal game," because the principal players are lawyers. A very well known lawyer is the chief patron. He is a model of physical beauty, and well known for his taciturnity and imperturbability, and ought to be a good poker player on account of the latter qualification. Facts show that he is not, however. His friends state he has dropped in as much as $10,000 at the Eighth-street game, and is still going down nightly with the stream. He is putting in all his earnings, and all he can borrow, according to general report, but a streak of ill-luck has been pursuing him for months, which, if it does not change soon, is bound to strand him. It is known that whatever engagements he drops he never misses the games, and he is playing desperately to catch even.

Another ex-lucky who has warmed the wool-sack of the circuit bench at a comparatively recent period, is also a patron. He has not been "hit so hard," but he is nevertheless dropping in considerable wealth. A lawyer also has figured in suits for prominent bank, and also an attendant, and is losing money faster at draw than he can make it at his practice. A number of cotton-brokers and merchants also drop in, as well as a couple of lawyers who would never be supposed to gamble. One man, who has been a well-known candidate, dropped in one night, it is said, and left $1,200 behind him. The next night he came back, caught $800 in a jack-pot, and quit the game, well satisfied to lose $400. The limit is said to be $50, but there is an arrangement by which the "bride" can be taken off at any time by consent, and occasionally, report says, as much as $1,000 changes hands in a pot.

Another big and lively game is played near the corner of Seventh and Olive streets, which is patronized to some extent by officials. A man who was a candidate at the last election for a very prominent office, and who is said to be the best poker player in the city, is the principal "boss" of the "bride" at this house. A popular city official, who is known widely for his record as a moral and temperate man, occasionally sits in. So do two or three other officials, and occasionally a cotton broker or two try hands at the $10 limit.

At a very well-known hotel a couple of games are in progress two or three times a week. The bigger game is usually played in a room on the top floor, the number of which begins with a "4," and has three figures in it. The room is occasionally changed, once at the request of a man rather prominent on "change," who objected because a friend of his was temporarily occupying the next room, and might hear the rattle of the chips. The limit here is generally as high as $100, and the players are all well-known business men, including one of the proprietors of hostelry. Another game, smaller in limit, is occasionally run at the same place. Clerks in the court-house say that they have seen in another hotel can be plainly seen from that building. At most of the restaurants where private games are kept games are in progress every night, and chips are furnished on call. The proprietor of a well-known restaurant on Fifth street slipped town a few weeks ago after a little game in which a business man dropped considerable money, and afterward made what is known in sporting parlance as a "sequel."

At most of the clubs games are played on the quiet, but the restaurants are the most popular places, because here men can get a quiet room, a quiet meal, and nobody is aware what is going on. Poker in private houses is also growing very popular, and parties at which gentlemen sit up until all hours in the morning are causing some consternation in the minds of certain wives in the West End and other fashionable localities. A certain Catholic priest, living out west, and prominently identified with Irish affairs, used to play a game in his own house, at which members of the congregation lost some money. Parishioners, especially ladies, began to make objections, and the parties are not held any more. All these are private games and have nothing to do with the professional poker-rooms. These latter are numerous, and are full every night.

A MAGNIFICENT TROUSSEAU.
The Dresses by Worth for Ex-Senator David Davis—Bride—Elegant Bridal Gifts.

From Philadelphia Times.

The bride was married in a traveling dress of dark brown silk and plush, trimmed with pompons. Her hat of brown velvet, trimmed with silk of the same color, was decorated with brown ostrich feathers. The other dresses were very elaborate, being comprised of no less than fifteen complete suits, with hats and gloves to match. The first reception dress is of ivory satin, hand-painted down the entire front and on the corsage with flowers in beautiful wreaths and bouquets. This exquisite design is by Worth. Six other costumes are from the hands of the same millinery master. One reception dress of pink satin is made "en train," with Spanish lace in deep flounces, looped with flowers. Another dress is of black satin, hand-painted skirt; still another, green velvet, trimmed with satin, bead garniture. One of green silk, trimmed with white satin, with a wide over-laid with ostrich feather trimming. One is of black satin, with sleeves of antique Spanish lace, the entire front being heavily embroidered with beads; one of plum-colored velvet, trimmed with terra-cotta silk embroidered crepe front; one of pink crepe, trimmed with white Spanish lace; one of black velvet, with chenille fringe; one tea-colored satin front combination of red and tea-colored satin, cut in squares, puffed, garnished with deep flounces of Spanish lace; one ecru silk, trimmed with blue brocade Spanish lace; one of violet velvet, black silk corsage; one of pink silk, front embroidered in silk, overlaid with pearl horse-shoe; one green-grain silk, hand-painted with designs of birds and flowers; also, wraps of blue and red satin. The entire trousseau is said to have cost $15,000. The bridal gifts were of unusual elegance and richness. From the groom came a pair of diamond earrings, solitaires of great size and brilliancy; diamond bracelet; necklace of twelve diamonds; two diamond rings, solitaire and cluster—a princely gift. Secretary of War Lincoln's gift was a mother-of-pearl portemonnaie, with violet satin, hand-painted with designs of cupids and flowers. From Secretary of State Freling-huysen came a library of English authors, bound in imperial morocco, 200 volumes. President Arthur's gift was a magnificent punch bowl of solid silver, two feet four inches high, repoussé lined with gold. Judge Hunt gave a set of silver knives and forks, with carved silver handles, Italian workmanship, representing the twelve seasons. A silver tea service, gold lined, came from Judge Otto, and a French ormolu clock and diamond ring from Colonel Wharton J. Green. From others came a pin of chased gold, bar-shaped, set with five large diamonds; a card receiver, of hammered gold, brought to this country by Highlanders in 1745 and since kept as a heirloom; mother-of-pearl and ostrich feather fans, six sets of silver dinner and desert spoons, gold-lined, besides a multitude of minor presents.

MERCER'S CULMBACH'S BAVARIAN BEER

Is the only known preventive for ALCOHOL DRINKERS.

Wir nehmen Vergnügen, auf eine Sendung Bier aufmerksam zu machen, die wir per Dampfer "Salier," kürzlich aus Bagn empfangen.

Bekanntermassen unterscheiden sich die Baiserischen Biere von den Polnischen durch einen grossen Hopfen und Malzgehalt, und hat Culmbach in Baiern dadurch einen Welttrug erlangt, dass die dortig gebrauten Biere den gross-möglichten Hopfen und Malzgehalt in Baiern gebrauter Biere aufweisen.

Unter den Brauereien in Culmbach, die sich in der Production eines wirklich ausgezeichneten Bieres die grössten Verdienst erworben haben, steht

in vorderster Reihe.

Sein Bier, ausgezeichnet im Geschmack, fand baldigst solchen Anklang, dass aus einem kleinen unheimlichen Brau-Etablissement in wenigen Jahren die grösste Brauerei Culmbach's emporblühte.

Hans Planck, bringt ein Bier in den Markt, das alle andern Biere Culmbach's bei Weitem in den Hintergrund stellt. Sein Bier ist ausgezeichnet durch hohen feinen Geschmack, höchsten Hopfen- und Malzgehalt, verbunden mit Erstaunen erregender Haltbarkeit im Winter sowohl wie im Hochsommer.

Es bedarf keiner weiteren Empfehlungen unserer Seite. Urtheilen Sie selbst; Sie werden diese Thatsachen bestätigt finden.
